ABOUT THE PROPERTY

In 1867, there were five bustling towns along southeast Minnesota's pristine Whitewater Valley. Today, three of those towns have vanished. The cemeteries, however, including Whitewater Cemetery, still remain, and those buried there still have stories to tell. We believe the best way to honor those buried in Whitewater Cemetery is to carry on these stories and help to preserve the fragile ecosystem in which the cemetery sits. Recently, Whitewater Cemetery became part of a long-running environmental protection effort happening in the valley. This effort began with the establishment of Whitewater State Park in 1919, followed by the establishment of The Whitewater State Wildlife Management Area in 1921, then the bold soil conservation programs of the 1930s. Today, forests are thriving and once-depleted native plant species and pollinator habitats are making tremendous comebacks. Whitewater Cemetery is a vital part of this progress. By providing a space for natural burials, where native flora and fauna can thrive, this cemetery is a shining example of what good can come from not only environmental mindfulness, but also an honest and heartfelt respect for the dead.

UNIQUENESS OF THE PROPERTY

Only a few miles from the Mississippi River and surrounded by thousands of protected acres of the Whitewater State Wildlife Management Area, this cemetery is part of one the most unique and breathtaking landscapes in America.
